

BLACK TOM BLOW-UP UNDER NEW INQUIRY

Department of Justice Agents Get More Clues About Work of Pro-Germans.

Department of Justice agents were at work to-day on what they regard as a new clue to the Black Tom and Kingsland explosions brought about by pro-Germans during the war.

Fred Haberman, who was arrested Monday in connection with a bomb explosion which wounded Robert Amrhein, No. 491 Pallade Avenue, Jersey City, was questioned by Archie Meury, a Department of Justice man called in by the police.

Haberman is said to have admitted that he was at Black Tom at about the time of the explosion there and at Kingsland at the time of that explosion.

He had been for years a boarder at the Amrhein home and had paid attention to Amrhein's mother. He had a radio machine shop in the basement of the Amrhein home. This shop was searched by Department of Justice men, who say they found materials similar to those used in the bomb which injured Amrhein. They also found newspaper clippings on the subject of explosions and explosives.

There were found also a number of revolver cartridges of 32 and 38 caliber. And there were drawings which are said to represent bombs. Haberman is held for further examination before Judge Leo Sullivan of the First District Criminal Court. He is charged with atrocious assault and battery.

MISS ZIMMERMAN ON STAND.

Women Pushed Aside in Crowd's Rush for Seats.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 13.—The belief that Miss Jennie Zimmerman would take the stand to-day in her own defense in the trial for the alleged murder of her cousin, Dr. Henry Zimmerman, last August, drew a crowd of hundreds to the County Court House two hours before the opening of the fourth day of the trial. When the main doors were opened court officers, who sought to admit women first, were pushed aside in the stampede for seats and it was necessary to clear the room of those who could not be accommodated.

WRITER IS ARRESTED.

Looking for Ring, Detective Says He Found Two Revolvers.

Fred Carver, a magazine writer, was held for trial in Special Sessions by Magistrate McQuade in Washington Heights Court to-day on a charge of violation of the Sullivan Law. Carver, who lives in a furnished room in the home of Mrs. Earle Stringfellow, No. 549 Riverside Drive, was arrested last night after Mrs. Stringfellow reported the loss of a diamond ring valued at $600.

Detective Hauptmann said he found two revolvers in Carver's room and the ring under a bath tub.

I Am Urged to Say a Few Words

about the wonderful operation that is in progress to give notice to speculators, who have been the instigators of high prices by cornering raw materials of every description and overruling in one way or another the limits of the time of the storage of foodstuffs.

Most assuredly the people have been very patient and have welcomed the patriotic effort upon which we entered last week, when not a single article in the store was exempt from the horizontal reduction that came on every ticket, except in the matter of a few reservations, of little consequence, where an honorable understanding had to be observed.

If some one had asked us to cut prices here and there, we would have pointed to our record of sixty years to show that we were not cutters of prices. Instead we put in everything we owned to back up the purpose that we had that the people should have a genuine opportunity to save one-fifth of the cost of whatever they bought of us.

It is quite possible that some people sell "seconds" of certain makes of articles that, for one reason or another, for some defect, were not included in the first choice of goods, and these may have appeared elsewhere at lower prices.

What we did and what we are doing is open to every merchant in this city or any other city, and hundreds have greatly praised us and used our advertising, and had every advantage that we are seeking for New York.

It certainly has stimulated thousands of storekeepers to endeavor to give the people of their communities advantages to try to meet their losses on Liberty Bonds and their necessities to save during the continuing high cost of living.

We Are Very Much Encouraged and we find a little sign here and there of manufacturers joining with us in the endeavor not to advance prices but to lower them in some instances.

We are putting out the cash that comes in, large quantities of it, wherever we find the articles that are up to our standard, and in some instances the owners of them are making reductions to us, which we turn over to our customers by giving a new price, which includes any advantage that we have received in the making of these purchases for cash.

We Are Not Urging People to Buy

We are simply giving them the opportunity and we shall continue to do so, being free to give notice any day when we have reason to believe that we have done our part.

We are in no hurry to sell our splendid stocks, and we will do our utmost to keep up our assortments by very great diligence in watching the markets.

We are not so much intent on having a great sale as we are intense in our purpose to stand with the people back of us, to protest against further advances at first hands, or making goods scarce by keeping them in storage.

"For the first time in my seventeen years' experience, I have quoted the name of another retailer in my advertising," says a Pennsylvania merchant in announcing that he will follow the Wanamaker Stores and reduce prices on his entire stock.

A Boston store has followed us part way, with "a straight reduction of 20 per cent. on every piece of merchandise in our shop, with the exception of those already bearing reductions." Here, at Wanamaker's you have the 20 per cent. off ALL goods that have been reduced.

"We point to the action of JOHN WANAMAKER of New York and Philadelphia, one of the greatest merchants in the East"—says a Western Michigan store in its advertisement, "as our beacon light. And we feel that it is our conscientious duty to follow the lead set by him."

A lovely looking patrician old lady said: "Please direct me to the waiting room, the lunch room and the check room. We're in town for the day, and we're going to spend the day here, and enjoy the excitement."

From New Mexico comes a telegraphic order, "Rush before the sale is over."

"I can always depend on everything I get at Wanamaker's," said one man; "and when I read your advertisement on the train coming up from Charlotte, N. C., I knew that something good was waiting for me. That's the suit."
